Odor-Tech appoints K2Controls as its exclusive sales representative for odorants in Texas

Odor-Tech LLC, a U.S. subsidiary of Arkema Inc. and a world leader in gas odorant supply, has appointed K2Controls, Inc., a Texas-based natural gas industry manufacturer's representative, as its exclusive sales representative in Texas, effective April 1, 2016.

Odor-Tech will use K2Control's local presence to more effectively market Arkema's Spotleak® natural gas odorants to address the gas odorant needs of the natural gas local distributions companies (LDCs). In addition, K2Controls will market Odor-Tech's ethyl mercaptan odorant to local propane manufacturers and promote Odor-Tech's range of odor control solutions.

K2Controls is a highly experienced firm that represents high quality products to the natural gas industry. With skilled technicians in the field, K2Controls is well-positioned to enhance the level of odorant service offered to LDCs in Texas. Odor-Tech has the largest and most versatile delivery fleet servicing the North American odorant marketplace, including cylinders, mini-bulk bobtail trucks, and bulk tank trailers.

"Safety is our primary goal and Odor-Tech and Arkema are known for precision and quality," said Ken Parrott, President of K2Controls. "We are excited to include Odor-Tech's chemical odorants in our offerings with YZ NJEX injection systems."

"We want to improve our proximity to our customers in Texas," said Olivier Griperay, Odor-Tech Market Manager at Arkema Inc. "Having K2Controls as a sales representative for odorant in Texas will enhance our technical support and will provide a broader odorization service that will be a major benefit to our customers."
