Arkema Inc. and Materiant Inc. sign distribution agreement for Rilsan® fine powders

Arkema Inc. is pleased to announce a distribution agreement with Materiant Inc. to further improve service levels to customers of Rilsan® fine powders. Through Materiant, customers will efficiently and effectively place orders, receive technical support, and tap into the differentiated products and services.

"Arkema provides one of the highest quality polyamide powder coating products with Rilsan® fine powders, said Joshua Gingras, business manager for Rilsan® fine powders at Arkema in North America. "With this agreement, we can complement our manufacturing and research and development strengths with exceptional customer service and technical support that meets the needs of our small and medium sized customers. We are extremely confident that the Materiant team will provide our customers with exemplary levels of service and support," Gingras added.

"We at Materiant are very excited about representing the industry leading Rilsan® fine powders product portfolio," said Lukasz Maltanski, business director for Materiant Inc., a Xenon Arc company. "Leveraging our domain expertise in servicing small-to-mid-sized customers and our leading-edge technology, we are committed to delivering superior customer intimacy and technical support to customers utilizing Arkema's Rilsan® fine powders product portfolio."

Effective Aug. 1, 2016 the Materiant team will support customers in the U.S. and Canada who use Rilsan fine powders. As a result, customers will be contacted by a representative from the Materiant team to discuss specific needs and assist with a smooth transition.
